

Smith Financial Results and Growth Summary

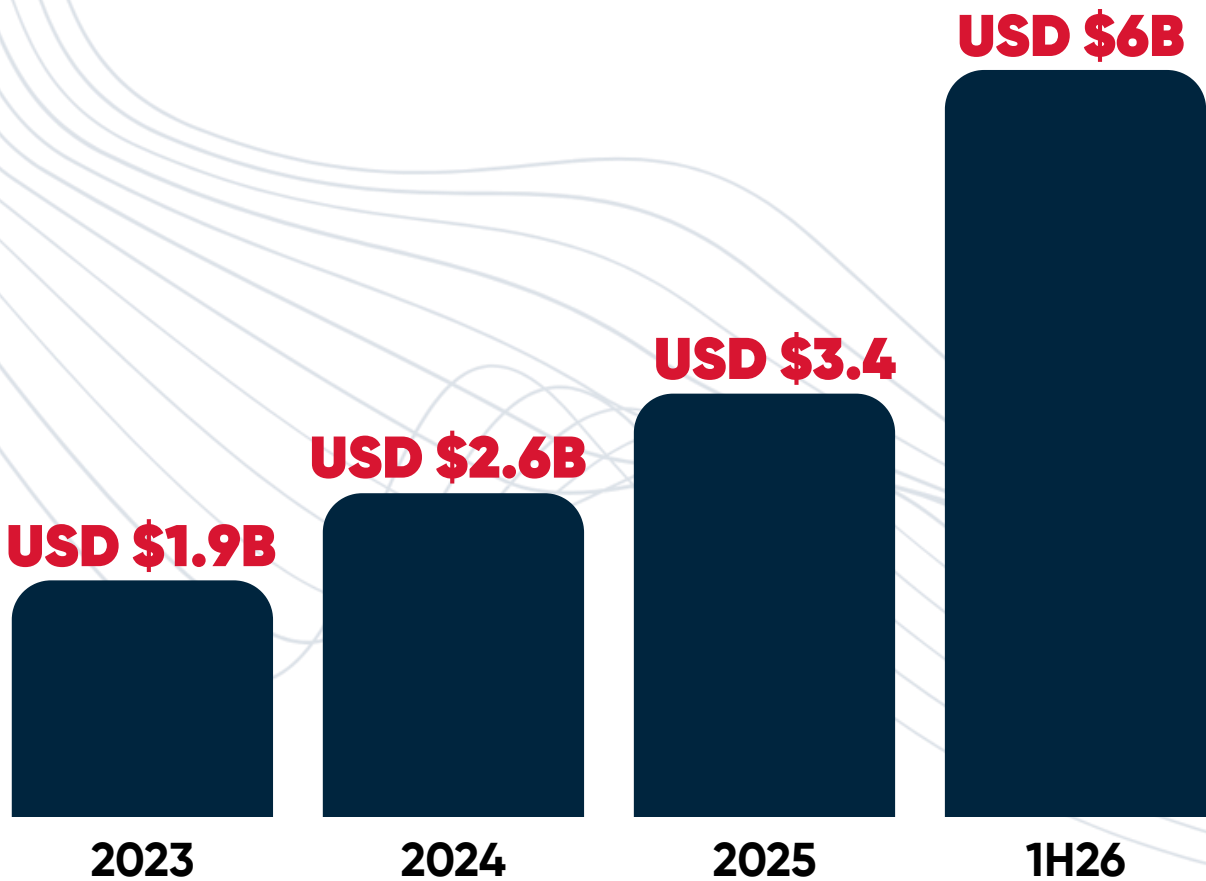

2026 YTD

The company continues to offer innovative supply chain solutions aimed at solving its customers' procurement needs amid the ongoing memory shortage

SMITH

1H26 Revenue

USD $6 Billion

“

The entire industry has been rapidly adapting to the changes we have seen over the last six months. Our broad global reach, insightful market data, and rigorous quality standards help our customers remain agile in this turbulent demand cycle and provide a dynamic framework for addressing their unique needs.

”

Bob Ackerley

Co-Founder and Director at Smith

With lead times extending for all products across the three major memory manufacturers, speed and flexibility have taken on even greater importance than in years past. Throughout the market shifts, Smith's global teams have remained agile, continually finding new and better ways to secure critical inventory and hard-to-find parts.

“

Smith continues to build upon the immense success of recent years as we find new and innovative ways to keep our customers' supply chains flowing. Our teams around the world have done an exceptional job of being proactive and solution-oriented to mitigate these shortages' impacts on our customers.

”

Lee Ackerley

Co-Founder and Director at Smith

Reinvesting in Success

12% increase in workforce

100+

employee promotions

Three new offices

Boston, MA

Albany, NY

Tampa, FL

More than 100,000 ft²
of added warehouse space

“

We have seen incredible success in the first half of 2026, and I expect that will only grow as the year goes on. We are not resting on our laurels—Smith is getting better every single day, at every level of the organization. As the memory shortage continues across our industry, we will continue to develop innovative supply chain solutions and provide the best possible service and products to our customers around the world.

”

Nick Bedford

Chief Executive Officer at Smith

Smith's experts are here to help.

Get in touch today!

SMITH